Description of corner evidence found:

Found 22"x10"x5" stone with faint marks visible lying over in a old mound of stone. The corner stone is rough and soft and the marks have worn.

There are no accessories originally established.
There has been no activity around this area and no fencing which could account for the stone mound or to have displaced the original stone, therefore the above described stone is accepted as the Section Cor.

Description of monument and accessories | established to perpetuate the original location of this corner:
